

You are invited to the 33rd VMATYC Conference at JTCC

Friday, November 1 and Saturday, November 2, 2019

Join us, as John Tyler Community College, in Midlothian, VA, will be hosting the 2019 Virginia Mathematical Association of Two Year Colleges Conference.

I'm excited to announce that Dr. John Adam, Mathematics Professor/University Professor at Old Dominion University will be our keynote speaker. Dr. Adam has been at Old Dominion since 1984 and has published approximately 110 papers and six books. His talk will be on "Mathematics in Nature" including rainbows, halos, cat paws, and more. You can read his bio at <https://fs.wp.odu.edu/jadam/>.

VMATYC is looking for presenters for this year's conference. With changes continuing to come from the VCCS, there are many things to present and discuss. Please consider presenting or conducting a workshop or roundtable. We have had a full year to teach MTH 154 and MCR, so how are things going? Please share your experiences. What pedagogies have you found successful in your developmental and credit courses? What technologies are you using to improve student success? Please share projects that you are using for lecture and online courses or something that you found valuable to share with your colleagues. Presenter applications must be submitted by October 10 to guarantee a spot on the program. Applications are available at <http://vmatyc.org/fall-2019-conference/presenter-application-form/>

CONFERENCE REGISTRATION AND FEES

The conference registration fee is $40 for all VMATYC members or any state AMATYC affiliate member. The conference registration fee for any non-VMATYC member is $65, which includes the $25 VMATYC membership fee.
